TransMarket Group L.L.C. and Subsidiaries
Notes to the Consolidated Statement of Financial Condition
November 30, 2002

Note 1 Nature of Operations and Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Operations—TransMarket Group L.L.C. ("TMG") and Subsidiaries (collectively, the "Company") enters into proprietary transactions in securities and exchange listed derivatives, primarily in the United States, Europe and Australia. The Company also provides clearing and execution services to customers in Australia. TMG is a registered broker-dealer and futures commission merchant and a member of principal commodity exchanges. TMG's operating agreement provides, among other things, that TMG shall dissolve no later than December 31, 2044.

Basis of Presentation—The consolidated financial statement includes the accounts of TMG and its subsidiaries. All significant intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

Use of Estimates—The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Securities and Derivatives Transactions—Transactions in securities and derivatives are recorded on trade date. Securities owned and securities sold, not yet purchased, and open futures and options on futures contracts are carried at market value.

Receivable and payable amounts for securities transactions that have not reached their contractual settlement date are recorded net in the consolidated statement of financial condition.

Commissions earned and related expenses are recognized on trade date.

Resale and Repurchase Agreements—Securities purchased under agreements to resell (reverse repurchase agreements or reverse repos) and securities sold under agreements to repurchase (repurchase agreements or repos) are treated as collateralized financing transactions and are carried at the amounts at which the securities will subsequently be resold or reacquired as specified in the respective agreements; such amounts include accrued interest. It is the policy of the Company to obtain possession of collateral with a market value equal to or in excess of the principal amount loaned under resale agreements. Collateral is valued daily, and the Company may require counterparties to deposit additional collateral or return collateral pledged where appropriate.

Memberships and Stock in Exchanges and Clearing Organization—Memberships in exchanges, and stock in exchanges and clearing organization held for operating purposes are carried at cost. Marketable stock in exchanges not held for operating purposes is carried at market value.

Furniture, Equipment and Leasehold Improvements—Furniture and equipment are being depreciated over the estimated useful lives of the assets on the straight-line method. Leasehold improvements are being amortized over the lesser of the estimated useful lives of the improvements or the term of the lease on the straight-line method.

Note 1 Nature of Operations and Significant Accounting Policies, Continued

Income Taxes—TMG is taxed as a partnership under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and, accordingly, is not subject to U.S. corporate income taxes. Instead, the member is liable for U.S. income taxes on TMG's taxable income. TMG's foreign subsidiaries are subject to tax in the jurisdictions in which they operate. Deferred income taxes are recorded to reflect the effects of differences in the recognition of income and expenses for financial reporting and tax reporting purposes, and for the benefits of any loss carryforwards.

Translation of Foreign Currencies—The assets and liabilities of foreign operations are translated at the exchange rates in effect at the date of the statement of financial condition, with related translation gains or losses reported as a separate component of member's equity.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments—Substantially all of the Company's assets and liabilities are considered financial instruments and are either already reflected at fair values or are short-term or replaceable on demand. Therefore, their carrying amounts approximate their fair values.

Note 2 Assets Segregated or Held in Separate Accounts Under Foreign Regulations

At November 30, 2002, assets segregated or held in separate accounts under foreign regulations and included in the consolidated statement of financial condition are as follows:

TransMarket Group L.L.C. and Subsidiaries
Notes to the Consolidated Statement of Financial Condition
November 30, 2002

Note 8 Income Taxes

The deferred tax liability at November 30, 2002 arises from a difference in the reporting of a foreign operation's unrealized gain on marketable stock in an exchange for financial statement and income tax purposes.

The Company has a net operating loss carryforward of approximately $600,000 from one of its foreign operations available indefinitely to offset future taxable income of this operation. At November 30, 2002, the Company has a deferred tax asset of approximately $200,000 arising primarily from this net operating loss carryforward. However, a valuation allowance has been provided to fully offset this deferred tax asset as realization is not assured.

Note 9 Employee Benefit Plan

The Company has a qualified 401(k) profit sharing plan covering all eligible employees. Under the provisions of the plan, the Company matches a portion, as defined, of the employees' contributions. In addition, the Company may elect to make discretionary contributions to the plan.

Note 10 Commitments

The Company leases office space under noncancelable lease agreements that expire at various dates to January 31, 2006. At November 30, 2002, the aggregate minimum annual rental commitments under these operating leases, exclusive of additional payments that may be required for certain increases in operating and maintenance costs, are as follows:

2003	$ 422,000
2004	431,000
2005	350,000
2006	17,000
	$ 1,220,000

The Company is obligated to purchase certain brokerage and execution services from a broker-dealer at a fixed price of $750,000 per quarter through April 30, 2005.

On March 2, 2001, TMG sold its domestic clearing and execution operations. Under the terms of the agreement, TMG has guaranteed the performance of a former customer in meeting certain contracted obligations.

Note 11 Derivatives Activities

In the normal course of business, the Company enters into transactions in a variety of cash and derivative financial instruments, including futures, options contracts, and other financial instruments with similar characteristics. Futures contracts provide for the delayed delivery or purchase of financial instruments at a specified future date at a specified price or yield. Options held provide the Company with the opportunity to deliver or take delivery of specified financial instruments at a contracted price. Options written obligate the Company to deliver or take delivery of specified financial instruments at a contracted price in the event the option is exercised by the holder. These financial instruments may have market risk and/or credit risk in excess of those amounts recorded in the consolidated statement of financial condition.

Market Risk—Derivative financial instruments involve varying degrees of off-balance-sheet market risk whereby changes in the market values of the underlying financial instruments may result in changes in the value of the financial instruments in excess of the amounts reflected in the consolidated statement of financial condition. Exposure to market risk is influenced by a number of factors, including the relationships between financial instruments and the Company's proprietary inventories, and the volatility and liquidity in the markets in which the financial instruments are traded. In many cases, the use of such financial instruments serves to modify or offset market risk associated with other transactions and, accordingly, serves to decrease the Company's overall exposure to market risk. The Company attempts to manage its exposure to market risk arising from the use of these financial instruments through various analytical monitoring techniques.

The Company also has securities sold, not yet purchased and will, therefore, be obligated to acquire the securities in the future at prevailing market prices, which may exceed the amount recorded in the consolidated statement of financial condition.

Credit Risk—Credit risk arises from the potential inability of counterparties to perform in accordance with the terms of the contract. The Company's exposure to credit risk associated with counterparty nonperformance is limited to the current cost to replace all contracts in which the Company has a gain. Exchange traded financial instruments, such as futures and options, generally do not give rise to significant counterparty exposure due to the cash settlement procedures for daily market movements and the margin requirements of the individual exchanges.

Concentrations of Credit Risk—The Company also enters into various transactions with broker-dealers and other financial institutions. In the event these counterparties do not fulfill their obligations, the Company may be exposed to risk. This risk of default depends on the creditworthiness of the counterparties to these transactions. It is the Company's policy to monitor the creditworthiness of each party with which it conducts business.

TransMarket Group L.L.C. and Subsidiaries

Customer Activities—The Company's customer activities include the acceptance and clearance of futures contracts and options on futures contracts for customers of its Australian subsidiary. As such, the Company guarantees to the respective clearing house its customers' performance under these contracts. The Company requires its customers to meet, at a minimum, the margin requirements established by the exchange at which the contracts are traded. These margin deposits represent good faith deposits by the customers, which reduce the risk to the Company of a failure on the part of the customer to fulfill any obligation under these contracts. In addition, the Company monitors daily its exposure to the risk of loss on an account by account basis and adjusts margin requirements as needed. Under certain circumstances, customers may be required to deposit additional funds, securities or other collateral. In order to reduce the risk of loss, the Company may also liquidate certain customer positions.

Note 12 Net Capital Requirements

TMG is subject to the capital requirements of several securities and commodities regulatory organizations, including the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission. TMG is required to maintain adjusted net capital equivalent to the greater of $250,000, 6-2/3 percent of aggregate indebtedness, 4 percent of funds required to be segregated and held in separate accounts for commodity futures customers, or the sum of 4 percent and 10 percent of noncustomer and customer maintenance margin requirements, respectively, as these terms are defined. Adjusted net capital, aggregate indebtedness, and funds required to be segregated for the net capital computation change from day to day. Under the most restrictive of these rules, TMG had adjusted net capital and adjusted net capital requirements at November 30, 2002, of $9,772,000 and $1,102,000, respectively. In addition, the Australian operations are subject to the capital requirements of the Sydney Futures Exchange. At November 30, 2002, the Company was in compliance with these capital requirements. The net capital requirements may effectively restrict the payment of cash distributions and the repayment of subordinated borrowings.

Note 13 Consolidated Subsidiaries

TMG's consolidated subsidiaries have total assets of approximately $25,873,000 and member's equity of $5,207,000.

The accounts of TMG's consolidated subsidiaries are not included in TMG's computation of net capital as the assets of TMG's consolidated subsidiaries are not readily available for the protection of TMG's counterparties, and other creditors, and the liabilities of TMG's consolidated subsidiaries are not guaranteed by TMG.
